

This page is used to confirm pending account requests at EiWiki.

Each account request queue consists of three subqueues. One for open request, one for those that have been put on hold by other administrators pending further information, and another for recently rejected requests.

When responding to a request, carefully review it and, if needed, confirm the information contain therein. Your actions will be privately logged. You are also expected to review any activity that takes place here aside from what you do yourself.
